APPENDIX

The following are the names and records of Clergy whose addresses the Editor has been unable to obtain, and with whom, therefore, he could not communicate. Every effort has been made to trace their present whereabouts, but without avail.

The Editor would esteem it a kindness if all who glance through this list would send him what information they possess, so that he may be enabled to restore them to the body of the work in the next issue.

Owing to the pressure of space it has been found necessary to delete all Clergy who have not held an appointment since 1907.

The Deanery of Wolverhampton (founded in 994) originally provided a handsome emolument for a Dean, and for the endowment of Seven Prebendal Stalls. The Deanery from the reign of Edward IV was held in conjunction with that of Windsor. On the death of Dean Hobart, 1846, the revenues were taken over by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and the Deanery and Prebendal Stalls abolished. The Incumbent of the Collegiate Church then received the title of Rector.
